

EXCEPTION

1. Paragraph 5c states that part-time employment of other than dependents of Agency personnel, as defined in the paper, is not practicable since the clearance expense would negate the results obtained. There may be many reasons for an Agency policy against part-time employment of persons, other than sons, daughters, wives or husbands of Agency employees. However, it is believed that the clearance expense is not of sufficient importance, in itself, to prevent the Agency from entering into a part-time employment program of persons, other than those mentioned above.

2. It is, therefore, believed that a more detailed study of the problem of part-time employment of clerical personnel should be made before such a conclusion is reached. This is believed particularly necessary if it is determined that the provisions of this paper will not solve the immediate shortage of clerical personnel as set forth in the paper.

Sheffield Edwards
Colonel, GSC
Director of Security